Kids in the Kitchen

Children will have fun following simple recipes that incorporate farm to table, measuring, following directions, rolling, and much more during this hands-on class. Emphasis will be placed on child friendly foods! Best of all, they will sample their creations! This class is always a popular choice for our tiniest of chefs! (Note: Some recipes may contain wheat, dairy, and eggs.)

Wednesdays- October 4, 11, 18, 25, November 8

Cost: $90.00

Registration Closes: September 20, 2017

More Than Just Blocks!

Back by popular demand! This is a hands-on class where children will build castles, skyscrapers, trains, boats that float, and camping tents, using a variety of blocks and materials. Children will have fun creating their open-ended designs. Each class begins with teachers creating an environment that motivates and inspires the children to explore and try out their interests. These sessions will appeal to both boys and girls.! (This class may not include a weekly take home project.)

Tuesdays – October 10, 17, 24, 31, November 14

Young Scientist

Children will love exploring ways that science works in their everyday lives. While answering open-ended questions, children will think about what they see and hear, what might happen and what is different than what they expected. Your child will experience chemical reactions, explore properties of liquids and solids, and investigate earth science. This class is always engaging, fascinating, and fresh with new and exciting hands-on experiments. For both boys & girls!

Tuesdays- November 21, 28, December 12, January 9, 16

Cost: $90.00

Registration Closes: November 8, 2017

Books Alive

By exposing children to literature, we increase the odds of them becoming readers. But when we engage them in fun and appealing activities with literature, the chances are even greater that they will want to be readers. Children will listen to a stories that are interactive, and teachers will link the books to an open-ended and creative activity. This class will inspire your child's imagination, creativity, organization, and spatial reasoning. Join us for an afternoon of literacy and fun!
